management in agriculture. In many parts of the world, weather and climate are one of the biggest production risks and uncertainty factors impacting on agricultural systems performance and management. Both structural and non-structural measures can be used to reduce the impacts of the variability (including extremes) of climate resources on crop production.

Non-typhoidal Salmonella spp. (hereafter simply referred to as Salmonella) is estimated to cause 93.8 million cases of acute gastroenteritis and 155,000 deaths globally each year, approximately 85% of which are estimated to be foodborne. As a result, Salmonella has a significant public health and economic impact on society. Pork products are among the top foodborne sources of Salmonella globally. While beef products are a less significant source of salmonellosis in many countries, they have been implicated in several large outbreaks in recent years. Contamination of beef and pork with Salmonella can also have a negative impact on the agri-food and trade sectors due to costly recalls of products and by limiting market access. The 45th Session of the Codex Committee on Food Hygiene (CCFH) agreed to develop "Guidelines for the Control of Non-typhoidal Salmonella spp. in Beef and Pork Meat." To facilitate this work, CCFH (November 2014) requested FAO and WHO provide scientific advice on this matter, by conducting a systematic literature review of the publicly available scientific literature to ensure that any relevant measures for the control of Salmonella in beef and pork are identified, and by convening an expert meeting to review the technical basis of the interventions proposed by CCFH. The experts were specifically asked to: advise on the most appropriate point(s) of application of specific interventions and decontamination treatments; verify, based on the available data, the efficacy of the interventions in terms of reduction of Salmonella; and advise, with some level of confidence, to the extent possible, on the quantifiable level of reduction that interventions achieve, and whether these are appropriate to include in the Codex guideline. The FAO/WHO systematic review covered interventions from primary production, to the end of processing to control Salmonella in pork and beef. FAO and WHO also issued to all Member Countries a public "call for data" on control measures for Salmonella in pork and beef. Several replies were received in response to the call, a couple of which included previously unavailable information.

In its early days, agroforestry may have been viewed as the domain of the landcare enthusiast. Today, integrating trees and shrubs into productive farming systems is seen as a core principle of sustainable agriculture. Agroforestry for Natural Resource Management provides the foundation for an understanding of agroforestry practice in both high and low rainfall zones across Australia. Three major areas are discussed: environmental functions of trees in the landscape (ecosystem mimicry, hydrology, protection of crops, animals and soil, biodiversity, aesthetics); productive functions of trees (timber, firewood, pulp, fodder, integrated multi-products); and the implementation of agroforestry (design, evaluation, establishment, adoption, policy support). The book also includes a DVD that features videos on forest measurement and harvesting; Treesmart, an agroforestry species database; a Farm Forestry Toolbox; a Farm Forestry & Agroforestry Reference Library and many regionally specific agroforestry resources. Agroforestry for Natural Resource Management is an essential resource for students in agroforestry courses, as well as a valuable introduction to the field for professionals in related areas. Features Wide coverage of the topic, from a 'principles' perspective Written by leading researchers and practitioners from around Australia, with expertise in agronomy, forestry, natural resource management, community and molecular ecologies, agricultural economics, soil science, hydrology, landscape architecture and rural sociology Comprehensive and integrated treatment of the environmental roles and productive potential of agroforestry across southern Australia Comprehensive and readily useable agroforestry and farm forestry resource base on DVD
